

Hallett, J. P. (1997) "Female Homoeroticism and the Denial of Roman Reality", in J.P. Hallett and M. Skinner (eds), Roman sexualities, Princeton University Press, 255-73.

Hallett's essay critiques several Roman literary caricatures of the woman-desiring woman, and their efforts to characterize female same-sex relations as involving male penetrative practices, and as linked with both the Greek world and distant times.
