

Cenerini, F. (2018) “Flaminiche e politica nelle città dell’Italia romana: ruolo attivo o marginale?”, in P. Pavón (ed.), Marginación y Mujer en el Imperio romano, Roma, Edizioni Quasar, 163-77.

This paper discusses the marginalization of Roman women with reference to public life in the city. Latin inscriptions confirm that female wealth was used by cities for public purposes and women had the possibility of being priestesses, especially of divae. Their position, however, remained always and in any case connected to a reference man.