

Coo, L. and Finglass, P. J. (eds) (2020) Female Characters in Fragmentary Greek Tragedy, Cambridge University Press, Cambridge.

This volume builds on recent insights into non-canonical Greek tragedy to provide a detailed examination of the female characters that are featured in these fragmentary texts. By examining lesser-known tragedies, it expands our understanding of female agency, power and violence in fifth-century Greek tragedy.

Table of Contents

1. Lyndsay Coo and P. J. Finglass, Introduction
2. Fiona McHardy, Female Violence towards Women and Girls in Greek Tragedy
3. Lyndsay Coo, Greek Tragedy and the Theatre of Sisterhood
4. Alan H. Sommerstein, Women in Love in the Fragmentary Plays of Sophocles
5. Helene P. Foley, Heterosexual Bonding in the Fragments of Euripides
6. P. J. Finglass, Suffering in Silence: Victims of Rape on the Tragic Stage
7. Anna Uhlig, Dancing on the Plain of the Sea: Gender and Theatrical Space in Aeschylus' Achilleis Trilogy
8. Niall W. Slater, Europa Revisited: An Experiment in Characterisation
9. Robert Cowan, When Mothers Turn Bad: The Perversion of the Maternal Ideal in Sophocles' Eurypylus
10. Caleb Simone, The Music One Desires: Hypsipyle and Aristophanes' 'Muse of Euripides'
11. Luigi Battezzato, Fragmented Self and Fragmented Responsibility: Pasiphae in Euripides' Cretans
12. James H. Kim On Chong-Gossard, Female Agency in Euripides' Hypsipyle
13. Matthew Wright, Making Medea Medea